

Guide to ACD18

The folders on this CD constitute the curriculum for Advanced Placement Computer Science A course collected by myself. Consider the collection as the textbook for the class. Each folder typically contains some files that explain the concept introduced. There is usually a sub-folder that provides a running example of the new concept. I intend for you to alter these example programs to help you understand the material. In this case, make a copy of the folder first and alter the copy. In addition, in many folders, there is an electronic book chapter written by a 3rd party. This information is included to provide you with an alternate resource to my notes.

Most slide presentations contained in each folder have a final slide that describes the lab that you are responsible for completing. I will give you the due dates for the labs.
